The Red Fort

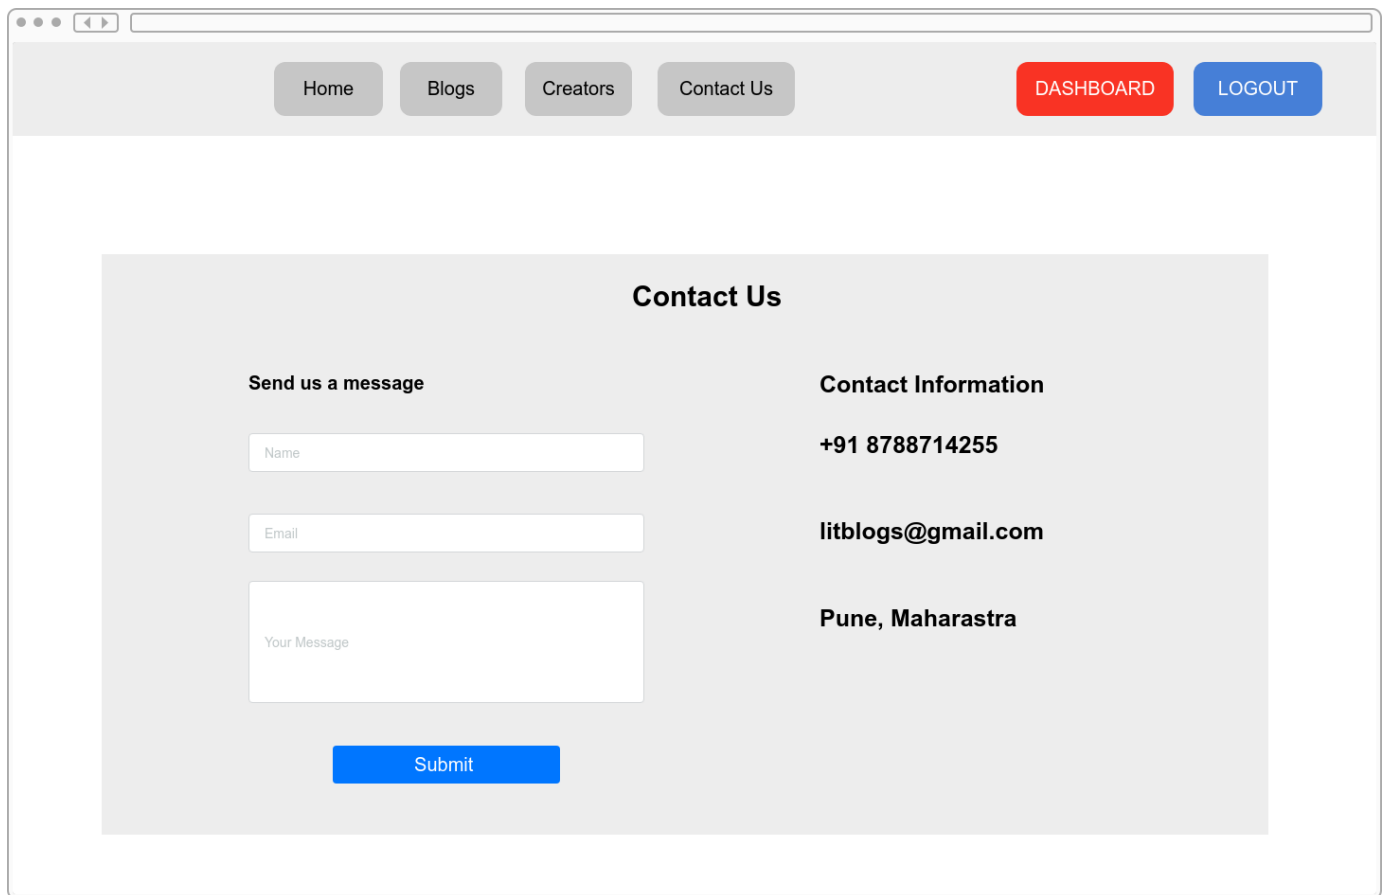

Author- Sudesh Bagat

The Red Fort, also known as Lal Qila, stands as one of the most iconic monuments of India's rich historical and architectural heritage. Located in the heart of Delhi, this majestic fort was commissioned by the Mughal Emperor Shah Jahan in 1638 and completed in 1648, serving as the imperial residence and the seat of Mughal power for nearly two centuries. Constructed primarily from red sandstone, the fort's massive walls stretch approximately 2.5 kilometers and soar up to 33 meters in height, symbolizing the strength and grandeur of the Mughal Empire. Every year on August 15th, the Prime Minister of India unfurls the national flag at the Red Fort and addresses the nation, commemorating India's freedom struggle and unity. Designated as a UNESCO World Heritage Site, the Red Fort continues to attract millions of visitors from around the world who come to admire its artistic brilliance and reflect on its storied past. Its imposing walls and intricate details not only tell the tale of a bygone empire but also echo the enduring spirit and cultural diversity of India itself.
